

WORKSHOP PART 3

With Professor Wendorff Jörg, who teaches communication at Ravensburg University of Applied Sciences, we looked at the ideas and projects of young people in Europe.

First we listened to the explanation of the swimming pool in Wangen, which was renovated by young people, by first interviewing young people and children to find out how this could be done and then putting the wishes into practice.

We answered some introductory questions by a show of hands to get involved (where are you from, what do you do in your free time, what does Europe look like to you) and then moved on to an analysis of what makes a presentation boring (monotony, lack of expression, light, lack of pictures, incomprehensibility, too long, no pauses/punctuation) and what makes a presentation good (interesting, funny, lively, effective, memorable). This should better prepare us for the presentations we were to give in the afternoon.
